Has it ever occurred to you that it may be a portion of your part on the programme of life to make mistakes appear ridiculous in the eyes of your fellow-men! Once in awhile, for purposes too secret for you to fathom, some one must play the fool, in order that the procession of numbers may move off right and the climax appear as was intended by the great master of cer-emonies, whose name is Destiny.

Don't mind too much, then, your failures and mistakes and foolishness All men have known such moments of humiliation. The wisest and most notable were never wise and noble at all times.

What right have you to expect always to shine in the eyes of others -to play always a heroic and ap-plauded prat? It is part of your relations with men that you should at times appear in a foolish and ignominwhich calls for both time and patience. A Japanese investigator who has been making inquiries on the subject has found that the price at which land may be procured differs greatly with the skill of the purchaser. Any hasty the owner, and creates opposition. The best plan is to select the district on which one's fancy rests, and either settle quietly down there or send an agent to do so instead, letting it be known in a general sort of way that one is disposed to buy. Then the Koreans, who class transactions in land in the same category with the sale or purchase of movable chattels -that is to say, as a mere means of procuring or spending money-will of themselves come and offer to sell. Then, by the exercise of a little patience, a considerable tract may be very cheaply acquired in a few years.

Evil of Belleving in Signs.

A man who saw the moon over his right shoulder and was feeling pretty safe for the month began the next day by falling over the railing of the lack porch with a pan of ashes in his hand. There was just ice enough on the porch to throw him against the railing, which was just high enough to give him the necessary tip and the law of gravitation and the ashes did the rest. The neighbor who saw him alight said it resem-July cannon loaded with the old-fashioned smoky powder and charged with ashpan, grief and profanity. And yet you can not tell from the context of the story whether or not the man was trying to empty his ashes on a Friday. That might explain something.

STORY OF SOUTH SEA SHARK. He Swallows an Alarm Clock, with Most Unusual Results.

While crossing among the South sea islands 30 odd years ago in our private yacht, the Haute Flyer, we were much annoyed by a large Irish setter shark that persisted in following the ship, says a writer in the Minneapolis Journal. During the night the shark would often climb up on deck and tip over the garbage can. At one time leary Williams, a sailor before the mast, was bitten on the leg by the brute. He almed a kick at the brute, who growled, showed his teeth, and sunk his fangs into Williams' limb be fore leaping over the rail into the alarm clock-which persisted in gong off furlously at all hours of the night—threw the timepiece overboard. The shark, always on hand for dainty tidbits from the galley, took the time of day at one gulp. For two days after that we heard the clock going in muffled way from the interior of the surprised shark, who was often seen with one fin on his head and the other on the pit of his stomach, evilently trying to diagnose his clock

We were standing on the stern of the ship one evening watching the shark, who was evidently feeling pret-ty sick. Suddenly the clock went off on him and the satiors, counting the strokes, noticed that it struck 23, When the shark heard this, he turned up and died before our eyes.

Woman's First Act of Philanthropy Decidedly a Failure.

A lady who was recently appointed visitor to a hospital for learing that noor children failed to reelve the same attention bestowed on those of richer parents, paid her first isit to the institution, intending to ffect a change. In a ward she found a tiny boy quite alone. He informed her that there was another boy in the wards, but that he was being examined before a clinic. The lady looked around her for evidences of neglect on the part of the attendants. A suit of clothes lay huddled on a chair. Folding them in an orderly manner,

"Surely, my dear, these trousers are oo long for you by several inches.
"Yes'm," replied the boy. "A sin and a shame," cried she, and took a "companion" from her bag. She sat down and cut off the legs of he garment and hemmed the edges. "Now," she said, triumphantly when the task was complete, "they will fit you better." "The other boy's taller than me," replied the child. "They belong to Antiquities at Ephesus.

One of the most valuable pockets of antiquarian treasures discovered in recent years has been unearthed by D. G. Hogarth of the British museum who is engaged in archeological plorations at Ephesus. Some of the coins among the 4,000 objects taken out at the artemisium are attributed to dates between 700 and 600 years pelore Christ, antedating the time of Croesus. Some of them are of still remoter periods, and are believed to be older than any other coins known o be in existence. #### ELECTRIFICATION OF STEAM BAILWAYS.

By Bien P. Arnold Previous to 1904 the officials of the steam railways of the country had paid but little at-tention to the subject of electricity, but were beginning to realize the inroads that were being made upon their local traffic by the interurban roads. This caused the more proressive ones among them to begin carefully to investigate the claims of the advantages of electric traction, with the result that at that time there either were contemplated, or well under way a number of important electric installations, which could be credited to the favorable decisions of steam railway officials. The Pennsylvania railroad system, in addition to the electrification of its great terminal system in the vicinity of Now York, gradually is electrifying the Long Island Bailroad system, which so effectually gridirons the island lying east of Manhattan island, and known as Long Isl-

MEDICINE HAS MADE GREAT STRIDES.

By Dr. W. H. Welch.

I wish to emphasize the mutual helpfulness of the various medical sciences in the development of medical knowledge and practice. Similar illustrations of the unity of the medical sciences and of the co-operation of the inboratory and the clinic might be multiplied indefinitely from all classes of disease.

Great as has been the advance of medicine in the last half century, it is small, indeed, in consparison with what remains to be accomplished. On every hand there are still unsolved problems of disease of overshadowing inportance. The ultimate problems relate to the nature and fundamental properties of living matter, and the power to modify these properties in desired directions. Knowledge breeds new knowledge, and we cannot doubt that research will be even more productly in the future than it has been in the past. It would be hazardous in

LIFE IS STILL ROMANTIC.

This century claims to be, and is, intensely practical. The struggle for life is strenuous and many are forced to "cut their hard paths straightly by Poor Richard's eloquence the other hand, we are continually told that modern society has no enruestness, no depth, little or no sincerity, and, worst of all, no high moral standard. Fashion and pleasure and a sham love are the amusements of the hour. To utshine each other in dress, in engagements, in admirers is apparently the whole duty of young women in the "classes." There can be no love without romance. Take that away and poetry vanishes; even as war without romance is merely licensed slaughter, so love, bereft of its sentiment, is but an affair of sale and barter. It is love, romantic love, which makes of marriage the most sacred and beautiful of ties; that sweet passion which South has colled "the great instrument of nature, the bond and cement of society, the spirit and spring of the universe, which, wisely controlled and rightly bestowed. warms, elevates and brightens life. But it should not be lightly given nor heedlessly accepted. The heart should carefully discriminate between true love and its many spurious imitations; with its sucred aureole of glory no unworthy object should be crowned, neither should it be allowed to dominate reasen and judgment Romantic love is by no means one and the same with hind, unreasoning passion.

The modern novel attack upon the family is nothing but another form of the world old complaint against human destiny. Mrs. Parsons suggests trial marriages. The scheme of trial marriages is, of course, simply monstrous. To cure a slight evil it would open he door to a most certain and positive crime. It would put a premium upon the wicked propensities of men. When a man and woman narry it is right that it should be under the promise of for better or for worse, in sickness and in health, for cicher, for poorer, till death do us part." It is this feeling of finality in the act of marriage that brings out the good in both parties. For few marriages fall which would not have succeeded had there been unswerving loyalty to the spirit of the marriage vows. Men and women are so constituted that, other things being reasonably equal, and there being no intolerable and manifest incongrulty, their living together in loyalty induces love

This photograph shows the main entrance to Pleasant View, the home near Concord of Mrs. Mary Baker Eddy, founder of Christian Science. The home of Mrs. Eddy, Pleasant View, occupies approximately fourteen acres, situated on Warren street, where that thoroughfare begins to assume the aspect of a beautiful country road, and about a mile from the business center of Concord. The "home place" has ten acres, to which has been added the Tuttle property of about four acres adjoining. The house is about forty feet back from the street, and to the rear of the buildings the ground slope ualy down into a picturesque valley.

Of course, some farmers object to what they regard as a method that entails the loss of the grain, but on fertile farms there will generally be a fair crop of hay, while on light soils the farmer must resort to such substitutes as will give the best results. Oats, if cut just before the time of ripening, yield a crop of straw ich in nutritious matter, being tender. keeping green and which will be relished by the cattle and horses. The node of feeding is to take the bundles of oats (or sheafs) and pass them through a cutter, chopping straw and herds together, the whole being a mass of immature grain and straw. A small quantity of ground grain is added to the cut oats and fed to the stock. The advantage of thus harvesting and preparing oats is that the whole of the straw can be utilized, while the time required for growth is shortened. Ever on rich, heavy lands this mode of harvesting is a good one where difficulty through the crop lodging is annually Government White-nah Take half a bushel of unslacked lime,

In 1904 the Bureau of Soils began series of experiments in Appomattox county, Virginia, with the object of determining by practical commercial tests what may be accomplished in these older tobacco-growing sections. A second acre plat was fertilized with 850 pounds of home-mixed fertilizer, costing $10.44, and containing seventy-three and one-half pounds of ammonia, fiftyseven pounds of phosphoric acid and seventy-five pounds of potash, and a third acre plat received 1,700 pounds of home-mixed fertilizer, costing $32.30, and giving 153 pounds of ammonia, 103 pounds of phosphoric acid and 125 ounds of potash. The acre fertilized after the usual farmer's method yielded 673 pounds of tobacco, which sold cents a pound. The second acre plat produced 883 pounds, selling for $81.00, or an average of 914 cents a pound,

Many are "lazy too much" in making the most out of the straw, says Practical Farmer. The increasing habit of American cities to mortgage the future is one of the marked governmental tendencies of the times. Although a marked improve-ment has taken place in the quantity of municipal governments, whatever the other good faults, there is seemingly no disposition to lessen the public burden. The theory seemingly is that municipal resources are practically unlimited. For a public servant to have prejudice against debt creation is considered proof that he is an old fogy.

The greater part of city debts repesent money put into buildings, streets, parks, etc., and no small part to meet administrative deficits. In view of the size of these debts and the little the public has received from their creation, there cannot be kept back a feeling of gratitude that the prudence of the last generation put into State constitutions clauses limiting debt creation. Except for these clauses there is reason to fear, with extravagance and recklessness in the nir as it is now, municipal indebtedness would increase much more than $100,000,000 a year.

Snow and Rain.

The first man to whom it ever ocpurred to find out how much rain was represented by a given fall of snow was Alexander Brice of Kirknewtown, who in March, 1765, made a simple experiment with the contents of a stone jug driven face downward into over six inches of snow. What he learned was that a greater or less degree of cold, or of wind, when the snow falls, and its "lying a longer or shorter time on the ground," will occasion a difference in the weight and in the quantity of water produced; "but if," he added, " may trust to the above trials which I endeavored to perform with care, snow, newly fallen, with a moderate gale of wind, freezing cold, will produce a quantity of water equal to one-tenth part of its bulk." So that a fall of ow of ten inches represents a rainfall of one inch .- London Chronicle.

For a great many years doctors pronounced it a local disease and prescribed local remedies; and by constantly falling to cure with local treatment, pronounced it incurable. At the same time a flat buoy remains fastened to the submarine, thus marking the position of the week. Another recent safety device is a hollow ball, which when automatically released florts which, when automatically released, floats to the surface and permits telephonic conunication with the submerged vessel,

HUMAN TRAITS IN THE DOG.

No Other Animal So Closely Re sembles the Genus Homo.
The dog undoubtedly exhibits more human traits than any other lower ani mal, and this by reason of his long asociation with man. There are few of the ordinary emotions that the dog lees not share, as joy, fun, love of adventure, jealousy, suspicion, com-radeship, helpfuiness, guilt, covetousness and the like or feelings analogous to these—the dog version of them. I am not sure but that the dog is capable of contempt.

The behavior at times of a large dog toward a small, the slights he will put upon him, is hardly capable of any ther interpretation. The forbearance too, which a large dog usually shows toward a touchy little whiffet, never resenting its impudent attacks, is very human. "A barking dog never bites s an old saying founded upon human nature as well as upon dog nature The noisy blusterer is rarely dangerous whether man or dog. I do not agree with Stevenson that the dog is anob.

The key to a dog's heart is kindness He will always meet you half way or more. I have been asked why the farm dog usually shows much hostility to tramps and all disreputable-looking persons. It is not their looks that disturb the dog, but their smell-a strange unknown odor.—Outlog.

A FRIENDLY GROCER

Dropped a Valuable Hint About

"For about eight years," writes a Mich, woman, "I suffered from nerv-ousness—part of the time down in bed with nervous prostration.

"Sometimes I would get numb and it would be almost impossible for me to speak for a spell. At others, I would have severe billious attacks, and my heart would flutter painfully when I would walk fast or sweep.

"I have taken enough medicine to start a small drug store, without any benefit. One evening our grocer was asking Husband how I was and be urged that I quit coffee and use Postum, so he brought home a pkg. and I made it according to directions and we were both delighted with it.

"So we quit coffee altogether and used only Postum. I began to get better in a month's time and look like another person, the color came back to my cheeks, I began to sleep well, my appetite was good and I commenced to take on flesh and become interested in everything about the house.

"Finally I was able to do all by own work without the least sign of my old trouble. I am so thankful for the little book. 'The Road to Wellville.' It has done me so much good. I haven't taken medicine of any kind for six months and don't need any.

"A friend of ours who did not like Postum as sile made It, liked mine, and when she learned to boil it long enough. hers was as good as mine. It's easy if you follow directions." The Anti-Saloon League proudly proclaims its tolerance by declaring that the bill it is advocating before the senate committee is not a prohibi-

Superficial examination of it usually brings the verdict that it is practical prohibition in a new guise. Is it? On what ground is objection based that the residents of a certain district, which for convenience, is one already in existence-an election districtmay not say by majority decree wheth or not there shall be saloons in those limits? What objection is there to a decree approved by a majority and wherein does the injustice of such a

Under the present system the oppo site is exactly the case. The people have no voice in the matter all. They are at the mercy of an intending an loonkeeper. In one sense it is true that this intending saloonkeeper mere ly exercises a property right. He uses what belongs to him as he sees fit. But there is a second provision which says that one may use his own as he will provided he does not interfere with the rights of others.

A saloon does interfere with the rights of others. It offers a temptation to the weak to the moral deterio ration of the community. It depreciates property values. It interferes with the peace and comfort of neigh borhoods. Yet a single man with a saloon in his mind may overrule the inanimous verdict of a whole neighweight? We have had some aggravated cases of the kind in Detroit.

The idea of prohibition in a measure is not very real. It does nothing, in fact, except provide a remedy for a very real evil. #### NOT SATISFIED.

The United States has long been afflicted with an element in the body politic that is never satisfied. It wants a change. No matter how prosperous the country may be it agitates for something different, something "better," and experience is that it usually gets something worse.

It appears that even with the disas man Tariff period fresh in their memories there are people who are clamor ing for a change. They are not satisfied with the most prosperous condidions ever experienced in this country and which have no parallel in all th world.

They want to rip up the Tariff. It is to be expected that the demo cratic organization to an extent would favor this, because they foolishly imagine there is no other issue that appeals to the democrats but the Tariff. industrial development than ever dreamed of is in progress and that there is less sentiment for Free-Trade in that section than ever before. But they expect republican support and to an extent they are getting it.

While Governor Cummins, of Iowa the rallying point for the Tariff revisionists, has been singularly silent of late, down in Massachusetts some members of the legislature have sign- tive study and analysis. If these ed a memorial to the President and Congress asking for an extra session of Congress to take up the matter of restricted in some radical fashion, revising the Tariff.

Good Roads Proposition.

The so called good roads proposition is being advanced in connection with the proposed constitutional amendment, striking out the clause which prohibits the teaching of a mechanic al trade to convicts, and is so misleading that it should not be permitted to pass unnoticed. The purpose is not to further the passage of the proposed amendment, which will be voted apon April 1st, but to defeat it, if possible. by throwing out the contention that the question of convict labor can be settled without amending the constitution by employing convicts in crushing rock to be used on the roads of

TRANSFER OF BLOOD.

WIFE'S LIFE IS BAVED BY NEW OPERATION.

Husband's Heart Pumps Blood from His Arteries Into Hers-lee Goes Out of Strates of Mackings at Very Early Date.

Dying from anamia, the life of Mrs. Peter Anderson of Philadelphin has been saved by a remarkable surgical operation, in which her husband's blood was pumped direct from his arteries into hers. The weenan, who was in a state of come at the time, is now on the road to recovery, and her husband, though weak from the loss of blood, will be restored to his normal condition. Mrs. Anderson, who is 35 years old, had been suffering from ex-treme anemia for several years. Pale and weak, she seemed almost bloodless. Ten days ago the disease took a turn for the worst, and her attending physician, Dr. Reisman, and her moved to the Polyclinic hospital. Finally she lapsed into coma. The surgeons gave her heart stimulants, but in vain. Then Dr. Reisman thought of the experiments of Dr. Dorrance in "blood transfer." Dr. Dorrance was sum-manded. He had experimented with au-mals with success, but never on human beings. Anderson and his wife were placed on the operating table together. The man was put under an annesthetic. An artery in his left arm was punctured, and through a tube blood was pumped into an artery in his wife's arm. She railled at once and rapidly gained in strength. After two quarts of Anderson's blood had flowed into his wife's arteries the tube flowed into his wife's arteries the tube was removed and the wounds of both patients dressed. Anderson wept with joy when he came from under the influence of the ether and saw his wife restored to mean and strength.

Terrible slaughter of pessants in toumania followed the bombardment of rebellious villages under government orders. In a single day it is reported 1.000 peasants were killed and inudreds wounded. Several villages were completely destroyed and the country surrounding them for a mile was devas tated. Terrible damage was inflicted by the large guns. Peasants were killed in their homes. Many were incinerated in their houses, set aftre by the shells.

In Vierus and four surrounding villages the casualties are estimated at 250 killed and 300 wounded. Brailestie another town subjected to bombard ment, lost 175 killed and 500 wounded. Many other places were bombarded. It is estimated that when complete reports of casualties are made they will show fully 1,000 persons killed outright Many of the wounded will die.

The ordering of the hombardment of villages shows the straits to which the government has been driven in its efforts to subdue the rebellious pensants All Roumania is practically in a state of slege. Anarchy is now almed at by the peasants and revolutionary agitators who are directing the insurrection Clashes between the troops and peas ants are becoming more frequent. In many instances the peasants triumphed. Unless the peasants can be checked, the very throne is threatened.

Advices are that the greatest fears are felt for the safety of King Charles and Queen Carmen Sylva. The revolt is now as much against the landholders and nobles as against the Jews. Large bodies of peasants, harrying the country as they go and resisting the soldiery with reckless bravery, are moving foward the cupital, Bucharest. Bu charest is guarded by a number of forts, but the reluctance of the soldlers in many instances to fire may put the capital in the hands of the insurgents Much gratification is felt by Surgeo General O'Reilly over the continued good sealth of the American troops in Cuba and the excellent work the United States medical officers have done in cleaning up the entire island. During the six months United States troops have been in Cuba, there has been only one case of yellow fever among them and on the whole their general health has been remarkably good.

The health of the troops in Cuba has een just as good as in a majority of the Stations in this country. During the first few weeks the 0,000 odd American troops in Cuba developed a few cuses of typhoid fever, but this disease has also been eliminnted. Unusual care is being taken by the medical officers stationed in Cuba to naintain the city and island in a sanitary condition.

Although President Eliot of Harvard

on this subject was not essentially dif-ferent from that of President Roosevelt.

Taking direct issue with President Roosevelt in his recent "molly-coddle" address at Harvard in defense of all rough college sports, the annual report of Harvard's head, Dr. Charles W. Eliot, takes the radical stand that football is no

game for gentlemen to play or for gentle men to watch; that is, an undesirable one. President Eliot admits that under great pressure of public opinion last year the game was much improved, but says the Harvard players suffered about the same kind of injuries as before. He inists that no game is fit for college uses in which recklessness in causing or suf-

By far the greater increase in railroad revenues, however, during the current year will be from freight, which are no longer affected by rebates. The gain is somewhere between $25,000,000 and $50,000,000.

In view of the unusually favorable conditions it is not surprising that returns indicate Easter trade to have exceeded in volume all previous experience, the remarkable buying having extended not only to the seasonable lines, but also into the luxuries. In other respects the week's developments afford much reason for sustained confidence in the business outlook. Labor difficulties cause less alarm than a year ago, and the controversy with railroad workers presents no differences not amenable to conciliation. Despite the high cost of money commercial borrowing shows no falling off, official statements of the banks exhibiting an aggregate of loans at the highest point recorded, an evidence of soundness in the fundamental basis of activity.

Bright, warm, almost summer weather, timulating alike to retail trade and crop progress, a cessation of liquidation in securities and in casing of strain in the money markets, so far as the April 1. period is concerned, are the notably favorable features in an encouraging week. Reports as to eastern demand are of a record trade, thus crowning a three months period which, except in a few sections, has exceeded any preceding year, and the only drawback in which has been the getting of goods in sufficient volume to supply demand. Collections are still backward, which is attributed variously to slow deliveries of goods, congestion of form product deliveries and finally to the henvily increased volume of past trade. Money is still high, a long period of this condition is apparently in sight and there is a disposition to await a clearer view of the future before extensive commitments are made.

YOUTH CAPTURES BRYAN, HAZED

Michigan Freshman Who Lured Away Nebraskan Pays Penalty. However innocent, William J. Bryan was the cause of the worst case of hazing which has stirred the monotony of life at the University of Michigan this year. The victim of the fun was Guy E. Marchaud, a first-year law student from Indiana, and his persecutors were a party of about fifty irate upper class men who were bent on punishing the freshman for the "newness" displayed on a recent night on the occasion of Bryan's visit to Arbor. Marchand was treated to crous diversions at Ferry field, where was taken by his captors. Spoiled he was taken by his captors. Spoiled en until a half case was disposed of, Other hazing stunts were gone through with until the ingenuity of the upper class men was exhausted. It had been plan ned to give Bryan a banquet after his lecture, which Ann Arbor's leading Democrats were to attend. Professors Boxle and Bunker of the law department were assigned to the duty of escorting Bryan from the lecture to the banquet hall. However, Marchand was enterprising and, aithough in no way connected with the affair, he rushed up at the close of the lecture and, selzing Bryan's arm, helped

Col. Ayer was a practicing physician in Chicago at the time of the exposure, and he was ruined financially and professionally through his connection with the case and the enemies he made. Kill the Miller Bill. The House judiciary committee applied the embalming fluid to Representative Miller's bill amending the mechanics' lied law requiring contractors; sub-contractors and material men to file notice within thirty days after beginning work of their intention to file a lien. Expenses of the Thew Trial Mave Been Extraordinarily Heavy. Estimates of the cost of the Thaw trial cannot be accurate, but approximate fig-ures are obtainable. While some of the ures are exaggerated, the lawyers' fees and sums spent for expert testimony and sums spent for expert testimony amount to small fortunes. The estimate that about $225,000 has been spent by Thaw and his relatives is regarded as

Thaw and his relatives is regarded as conservative.

A favorite topic for exaggeration is the size of the fees that will be paid to Thaw's six lawyers. An atorney who is in a position to know said a few days ago that the fee of Delphin M. Delmas, leading counsel for Thaw, would probable be about $50.000. The asymptotic bly be about $50,000. The payments to the five lawyers and the retainers of the attorneys engaged after the killing of Stanford White and subsequently dismissed would, according to the lawyer quoted be covered by a check for $100,000.

Four experts for the defense have been attending the sessions constantly. Four others were in the court room for a few days. It is said that the court expenses for these experts would not be more than $1,500. The fees, however, represent only a small part of the sums spent for ex-pert opinions regarding Harry Thaw's mental condition. Noted physicians were consulted in Pittsburg and other cities. They were brought to New York from distant points to examine the defendant. Their statements practically covered Thaw's life since boylood and the his-tories of his relatives. An allowance of tories of his relatives. An allowance of $25,000 is considered ample for this branch of the case. The expenses of the preliminary investigation and preparation of the case are fixed at about $50,000. An expense of more than $24,000 will fall upon the court. Justice Fitzgerald's salary is $17,500. He will receive $2,-196 for the two nouths he has been presiding at the trial. The fifteen court clerks and officers receive on an average $1,500 a year. In the two months they have carned at least $0.750. The fees of the stenographers engaged in the trial will be $3,000.

The twelve jurors will receive about $1,500. The estimate of $124 for each juror is conservative. It consists only of actual service, and does not include the fees of the other men on the panel called for the Thaw trial. The cost of long thing the twelve jurors will amount to boarding the twelve jurors will amount to another $1,500 at least, allowing $2 a day for each man. Public interest in the tria has been intense, and all sorts of excuse have been used by the unprivileged to gain admittance to the court room. It was therefore thought necessary to detail fifty policemen to guard the stairways and orridors: Each is paid $1,400 a year on an average. Their service for two months will therefore cost $11,650.

The expenses of the prosecution will be at least $16,000. District Attorney

Jerome's salary is $12,000 a year. Allow-ing him merely for the time he has spent in court, he has carned $2,000 in the two months. Assistant District Attorney Frank P. Garven has carned $1,250, his salary being $7,000 a year. The experts cost the people $15 a, day. Three of them have been in court continuously. Allowing them, for five days in a week-the average number of sessions—each will draw $675, or $15 a day for 45 days. The three experts will therefore cost the peo-ple $2.025. Four other experts were in court for four or five days. Their combined fees will be $60 a may, or at least $240. The single item of experts fees therefore means in expense of at least $2.265 to the peoples bistrict Attorney Jerome summoned fully a doz n other witnesses. They will be paid 50 cents a day, An attache of the district atterney's of-fice said that $250 would probably cover their expenses and fees. In all great trials the proceedings in court represent the results of weeks of preparation by the district attorney. This outside investigation before and during the Thaw trial meant detective work in New York, visits of attaches of the dis-trict attorney's office to other towns, andless examinations, piles of allidavits, railroad fares, huted bills; stenographers, fee and the cost of cablegrams, to similar expenses. Assistant District At-torney Garvan, who had most of this work in charge, said that the cost of the prosecution outside of the court from would be about $10.000. Thus the lowest estimate of expenses of the Thaw trial will therefore aggregate about $266,000.

LESSON FOR APRIL 7, 199

Jacob's Vision and God's Promise. Gen. 28:1-5, 10-22, Golden Text.-Behold, I am with thee, and will keep thee in all places whither thou goest.—Gen. 28:15. There are a great many things that the Bible does not tell us about the characters in it which are most strikingly see before us, and sometimes the things that are left out are the very facts which are ordinary, historian would have emphasized. For instance, there is nothing in the history of Jacob, up to the time of his leaving home, to convey the Impre that he was the sort of man to win God's favor. Yet the very first thing we hear about him after he has gone forth to week out his own destiny is that a very extraordinary manifestation of God's given to him. This fact seems to prove that with all his sharpness Jacob was a sincerely religious man, or else, that be-fore lying down in his loneliness for the first time he had made some special sppeal to God.

Jacob's experience at Bethel is a strik-ing Illustration of God's method of deal-ing with sinners. God meets the sinner with a promise so great and rich and free and far-reaching that it is calculated to stimulate hope and desire and endeavor to the utmost—if the sinner will only receive it and trust in it.

God's promise to Jacob at Bethel was undoubtedly the means of Jacob's transformation into Israel—"a prince of God" for that promise was always present to Jacob's mind and kept him constantly looking to God for help, and so tank him to love and trust God, and also to look upon himself as God's servant, subject to God's orders.

Jacob's return promise to God, "of all that Thou shalt give me, I will surely give the tenth unto Thee" seems to savor a little of Jacob's lustinet for driving sharp bargains. It was certainly not a great thing to promise, but how many Christians of the present day do so well? We do not read about the fulfillment of this promise and are not informed of any way in which Jacob could give the tenth of the great wealth which he afterwards obtained to God. We can scarcely suppose that it was all given in the way of burnt offerings.

This life is a pilgrimage, or journey, through circumstances and experiences that are strange to us. We have no sooner gotten over one difficulty than we are up against another. We are like travelers in unknown regions. The experience s exhibitrating for strong characters, like Jarob thut at times a sense of oppression will come over the strongest spirits, and at such times men feel the need of comfort and direction from above.

It is in the midst of the greatest diffi-culties that we can see most clearly our need of a great hope for the future. And when we are most weary, and perhaps despondent. God can make our way "appear steps up to Heaven," and can enable us to raise our Both-el, our House of God, out of our "stony grids." So we learn to value the fight, and the seemingly adverse circumstances through which we pass. We want to be nearez God, and we learn that the whole of our journey through life is taking us ever nearer to God if only we struggle on Jacob's Flight,—Esau hated Jacob for his trickery and because he had secured the birthright from him. Jacob's life was in danger, and his mother thought it best that he should go away till Esan's anger had cooled. Therefore Jacob be-came an exile. But before he left he received from his father a confirmation of the blessing he had first obtained through trickery.

Relieval failed to learn straightforwardness, it seems from the result of her part in Jacob's trickery; for instead of telling Isaac that she wished Jacob to leave because of Esau's threat she induced Isaac to part with Jacob on the ground that she feared Jacob might mar-ry one of the women of the land. (Gen. 27 (36,) Rebekah thought of Jacob's journey as lasting only "a few days," but he was destined not to see her favorite son again. In that way her sin punished

The safest way was to keep to the stock from which Abraham himself came. We do not hear a great deal about Rebekah nor about Jacob's wives. Leah and Rachel, but they must have been fine women when compared with the "daughters of Heth" (Hitties) and others of whom Rebekah was so much afraid. They could share the hope of their husbands and be in some measure their religious companions.

The Biessing of Isaac,-When the Sadducees attempted to argue before Jesus that it was ridiculous to expect a resurrection. Jesus pointed them to the expression, "the God of Abraham, and of Isane, and of Jacoh." and He said God was not the God of the dead but of the living. Therefore these patriarchs were still living, or God would not have intro-duced Himself in that way. Now if we study the lives of these three patriarchs we must be convinced that they looked far into the future, worked for it, hoped for it. They acted as those who believe lluminant Was First Looked Upon with Much Alarm.

Gas, as a practical illuminant, passed its century mark on January 28. On that day in 1807 there was in Lonion "a new and singular spectacle," according to the account of a visitor, the whole range of Pall Mall, from St. James' to Cockspur street, was lighted up by means of lamps fed with and instead of cotton and oil, and cer-When there is a prospect of a long tainly in a style of much superior filmess two small cots that cost so brilliancy. Sir Walter Scott wrote that there was a madman proposing to light London with smoke. Awful consequences were predicted. The gas would polson the air and blow up the inhabit-ants; it was explosive, dangerous, offensive and unmanageable; the pires produce conflagrations. The lamplight ers to a man opposed the new mode of street lighting, and it is curious to no tice the great hesitation as to its possibility expressed in contemporary scientific and popular literature

An Old-Time Playful Prisoner. The centenary has been noted recently in London of what the Annual Register called "a most unparallelled atrocity." It was only the theft of a pocket handkerchief from a pocket; but the circumstances of the deed extion. Four men were on their trial for assaulting a man in his house at Ponder's End, putting him in fear and relieved the tedium of the trial, which lasted eight hours, by picking the pocket of one of the turnkeys as he stood in the dock. An official had the presence of mind to order the restoration of the handkerchief, and the prisoner obeyed, "with the most careless indifference," but the court, we read, "were horzor-struck." Justice however, pulled itself together sufficiently to sentence all four men to death.
